FORM 2. PERSONAL STATEMENT

Good day . I am Maryam Asdah, and I am deeply passionate about technology, programming, and the way innovation can change lives. From my early high school years, I discovered my interest in coding, even though my school had very limited computer resources. Instead of giving up, I installed programming applications on my personal phone and laptop, experimenting and learning independently. At first, I was not strong in mathematics or computer science, but I realized that my future depended on mastering these subjects. I created a study plan, pushed myself to improve step by step, and gradually became more confident and skilled.

I chose to study in South Korea because it is one of the most advanced countries in the world in the field of technology and programming. Korea is not only a global leader in technological development but also a nation with a rich culture and history. What inspires me most is the diligence and perseverance of the Korean people, values that I also strive to live by. I believe that studying in Korea will allow me to grow both academically and personally, learning not only from classrooms but also from the people I meet and the international environment I will be part of.

During my third year of middle school, we studied remotely due to global circumstances. Many of my classmates lost motivation, and I almost fell into the same pattern. However, one of my teachers encouraged me and reminded me of my potential. This support changed my mindset. I refocused on my goals, became more engaged in schoolwork, and started participating in more activities. That year was a turning point in my education because I realized the importance of persistence and self-discipline.

Despite the challenges in my school environment, I always sought opportunities to develop my skills. I designed small projects and logos, which helped me sharpen my technical abilities. Another experience that shaped me was representing my school at a national-level applied lesson in my second year of high school. I was chosen among top students to present research and creative work. Preparing and delivering this project improved my confidence, teamwork, and presentation skills, all of which will be crucial in my university studies.

In addition to academics, I have been active in volunteer work and small school events. These activities taught me responsibility, teamwork, and the importance of learning from mistakes. I also enjoy personal hobbies such as reading, drawing, technical design, and chess. Chess in particular has helped me develop patience, logical thinking, and strategic planning, which I believe are essential qualities for a software engineer. My efforts have been recognized through certificates of excellence in mathematics and awards for discipline and volunteer participation, which motivate me to aim higher.

I am applying for the GKS scholarship because it represents more than just financial support; it is a comprehensive opportunity that combines education, cultural exchange, and personal growth. Through this program, I hope to receive world-class education and training in leading Korean companies, gaining practical experience at a high level. Learning the Korean language will also be an important part of my journey, allowing me to engage more deeply with Korean culture and society.

My long-term goal is to become a software/computer engineer who not only builds innovative projects but also creates meaningful solutions that benefit my community. I aspire to one day establish a company that develops educational and cultural applications, inspiring young people to explore opportunities in technology. This goal came from my experiences exploring technology independently, participating in school projects, and witnessing the impact of innovation at events such as the LEAP exhibition in Riyadh. To further this goal, I attended the LEAP exhibition, which focused on artificial intelligence and programming. There, I had the opportunity to explore the latest technological innovations and observe Korean companies participating alongside other international firms. This experience inspired me to further develop my skills, learn from global standards, and understand the practical applications of technology in real-world settings. I believe that combining technical innovation with human values is the best way to create lasting change.

I am confident that studying in South Korea through the GKS program will be a transformative experience. The Korean people are known for their determination, openness, and respect for other cultures, and I am eager to learn from this environment. Being accepted into this scholarship will not only allow me to pursue my academic goals but will also mark the beginning of a lifelong journey of learning, creativity, and global contribution. Through this experience, I look forward to acquiring new skills in programming and technology, enhancing my abilities in teamwork and critical thinking, and developing innovative approaches to problem-solving. I also hope to learn how to apply the knowledge I gain practically in my future projects and contribute to creating technological solutions that effectively and sustainably benefit my community.

FORM 3. STUDY PLAN

Language Study Plan	Before arriving in Korea, I plan to prepare myself by using educational language applications to strengthen my foundation in Korean. I will dedicate time to learning basic vocabulary, common expressions, and essential grammar rules. Some of the applications I will use include Duolingo, Memrise, LingQ, and HelloTalk. Through these apps, I will practice reading, writing, listening, and speaking, which will give me a head start and make the transition to intensive language classes smoother. This preparation will also help me become familiar with digital learning tools and develop disciplined study habits before entering the university environment. Upon arriving in Korea, I will dedicate a full year to learning the Korean language intensively to ensure a smooth transition into my academic studies. I have already achieved 2B certification from JIST TOEFL Academy, which reflects my English proficiency, and I will continue to improve my academic and technical language skills alongside Korean. During this preparatory year, I will follow a structured and comprehensive plan that combines classroom learning, self-study, practical exercises, and cultural immersion. I will dedicate 3–4 hours daily to focused study, including reading academic texts, practicing writing essays and technical reports, improving listening comprehension through podcasts and lectures, and engaging in daily conversations with peers and instructors. I will also maintain a personal journal to record new vocabulary, sentence structures, and cultural observations, reviewing it regularly to track my progress. In addition to academic activities, I plan to participate in university clubs, language exchange programs, and cultural events to practice communication skills in real-life settings. By the end of this year, I aim to achieve fluency in Korean sufficient to engage confidently in classroom discussions, complete academic assignments, and collaborate effectively with peers, ensuring a strong start to my undergraduate studies.
(Months 1–3): Foundations and Adaptation	(Months 7–9): Academic Application
<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>•Attend beginner Korean classes focusing on Hangul, basic grammar, and vocabulary.</li> <li>•Practice reading, writing, listening, and speaking daily (3–4 hours).</li> <li>•Start a journal to record new words and sentences.</li> </ul>	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>•Focus on academic writing and short reports.</li> <li>•Participate in clubs and language exchange activities.</li> <li>•Work on mini-projects to practice technical and cultural topics.</li> </ul>
(Months 4–6): Intermediate Skills	(Months 10–12): Advanced Use and Readiness
<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>•Move to intermediate Korean classes.</li> <li>•Engage in daily conversations with peers and instructors.</li> <li>•Read simple academic and technical materials to expand vocabulary</li> </ul>	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>•Concentrate on academic and technical language, especially programming terminology.</li> <li>•Complete a small final project in Korean.</li> <li>•Fully engage in university activities and prepare for undergraduate studies.</li> </ul>

Goal of study	My primary goal is to become a highly skilled software and computer engineer who combines technical expertise with creativity to develop innovative and meaningful solutions. I aim to master programming, artificial intelligence, application development, and the latest trends in software design while nurturing my creative abilities. I am motivated by the desire to solve real-world problems through technology and to create applications that can improve education, culture, and community development. I aspire to: <ul style="list-style-type: none"><li>•Acquire comprehensive knowledge of programming languages, computer systems, and software design principles.</li><li>•Enhance my analytical thinking, problem-solving skills, and collaborative abilities through rigorous academic training and practical projects.</li><li>•Integrate creative design and technical innovation to build user-friendly, impactful applications.</li><li>•Strengthen self-discipline, perseverance, and a lifelong habit of self-directed learning.</li></ul> Engaging with Korean culture and technology to understand global best practices and innovation trends. <ul style="list-style-type: none"><li>•Apply my technical skills ethically, combining innovation with human values to make lasting contributions to society.</li><li>•Continuously improve my Korean and English proficiency to fully participate in academic, professional, and social activities.</li></ul>
Study Plan
1st Year		3rd Year
<ul style="list-style-type: none"><li>•Study foundational courses in programming (Python, Java), computer systems, and basic software design.</li><li>•Implement small projects, such as creating simple tools to solve daily problems or educational applications.</li><li>•Dedicate daily hours to self-study, reinforcing logical thinking, problem-solving, and coding practices.</li><li>•Develop personal habits of disciplined learning, time management, and reflection on progress.</li></ul>		<ul style="list-style-type: none"><li>•Specialize in advanced topics: artificial intelligence, application development, user interface design, and cybersecurity.</li><li>•Begin a preliminary capstone project with faculty supervision, focusing on solving practical problems or designing innovative applications.</li><li>•Engage in summer internships at software companies or university labs to gain real-world experience.</li><li>•Participate in small research projects or technical development tasks to improve practical and analytical skills.</li><li>•Enhance presentation and communication abilities, especially in multicultural teamwork environments.</li></ul>
2nd Year		4th Year
<ul style="list-style-type: none"><li>•Advance to intermediate subjects: data structures, databases, and object-oriented programming (OOP).</li><li>•Undertake a medium-sized project: develop a web or mobile application addressing a specific need or problem.</li><li>•Participate in local and international programming competitions to strengthen practical skills and teamwork.</li><li>•Learn professional development tools, including Git, IDEs, and debugging software, to enhance project execution.</li><li>•Cultivate collaboration and communication skills in group projects.</li></ul>		<ul style="list-style-type: none"><li>•Complete the final capstone project, documenting processes and outcomes comprehensively.</li><li>•Undertake intensive internships in advanced software development companies or laboratories.</li><li>•Participate in research collaborations and publish small reports or findings when possible.</li><li>•Prepare a professional portfolio and plan for career entry or initiating an independent application project.</li><li>•Develop leadership, decision-making, and complex problem-solving skills applicable to the technology industry.</li></ul>

Future Plan after Study	After graduation, I plan to work in Korea for one to two years to gain advanced technical experience and exposure to cutting-edge programming practices. During this period, I aim to: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>•Acquire practical skills, understand the best practices in software development, and learn the organizational culture of leading Korean companies.</li> <li>•Apply knowledge gained to projects and internships, building a strong professional foundation.</li> <li>•Return to my home country to implement innovative educational and technological projects.</li> <li>•Inspire and mentor young people, particularly in technology and programming, contributing to the development of the local tech sector.</li> <li>•Integrate technical innovation with human values, ensuring sustainable, meaningful solutions that benefit society.</li> <li>•Continue lifelong learning, staying updated with global technological trends to maintain excellence in professional practice.</li> </ul>
